

More Pedernales outrage

Re: Jan. 6 article "Co-op records: posh travel, no oversight."

Many thanks to Claudia Grisales for her ongoing, in-depth reporting.

Members of pec4u.org have been beating the drum about the Pedernales Electric Cooperative's lack of democracy and transparency for some time but, up to now, had no clue about the depth of fiscal irresponsibility that the board of directors exhibits.

It is now abundantly obvious that General Manager Bennie Fuelberg and his Johnson City cronies have been picking the pockets of the member-owners for a very long time. But we don't even know how long because the judge allowed the lawsuit's discovery to go back only five years.

Every member of the sinecure board of directors has either knowingly or ignorantly been complicit in the shenanigans. They all need to go before any real reform can take place. Throw the bums out.
